E&P Consulting Contractor Consultant Survey 2022

About this report

E&P Consulting is a global energy consultancy firm providing digital domain expertise and agile product teams for companies in the energy industry. Headquartered in London, E&P also has hubs in Aberdeen, Houston, and India.

Over the last two years, E&P has grown significantly, doubling its number of consultants, opening a hub in India, and expanding its digital domain expertise into the renewables sector. These changes have underpinned E&P's move from being fully upstream focused to a consultancy that now provides services to digital teams within all energy sectors.

As part of managing this growth and ensuring that E&P maintains its core values and continues to achieve excellence in service and care of its consultants, the E&P management team conducted its first ever survey with its consultants at the end of 2022.

The 2022 Contractor Consultant Survey was an online survey that was open for submissions over October and November 2022. It was completely anonymous, giving consultants an opportunity to be candid with the management team about the areas that they felt the company needs to capitalise on and / or improve upon.

Consultants across all of E&P's core regions were invited to complete the survey, and the following report includes feedback and insights received from consultants in the Asia region.
